

Including children in spatial planning and design development processes

Emanating from work focused on child and youth voices in City practices as well as the role of local Government in early Childhood development, SACN held an engagement on 3 April 2023. It focused on sharing a practice note on Including Children in Spatial Planning and Design Development Processes as well as practical examples on planning and designing with and for children.

Way Forward

The engagement brought to the fore key practices in South African Cities and fostered a renewed commitment of a community of practice of schools, NGOs, academia, artists and city practitioners. There is also a renewed interest in developing a Child or Youth plan within a City in South Africa or including a children's chapter in the IDP.
